it occurs, could cause an actual or a potential material negative impact on the value of an investment.

The likely impacts of sustainability risks on the returns of the Fund will depend on the Fund's exposure to investments that are vulnerable to sustainability risks and the materiality of the sustainability risks.

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 5 years.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

Historical performance means this product is classified as 6 out of 7, which is a high risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-high level, and poor market conditions will likely impact the capacity for you to receive a positive return on your investment.

While not pursuing a sustainable mandate or focus, the AIFM have integrated sustainability risks as part of its investment decision - making process. A sustainability risk is an ESG event or condition that, if

The following are some of the other risks materially relevant to the PRIIPs which are not taken into account in the summary risk indicator:

Investing in smaller cap companies carries higher risk due to lower market liquidity and possible higher volatility of returns. The fund is exposed to exchange rate volatility, as it holds assets denominated in multiple currencies. See prospectus for overall risk information.

The product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose all or some of your investment. If we are not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment.

This table shows the money you could get back over the next 5 years (recommended holding period), under different scenarios, assuming that you invest €10,000. The scenarios shown illustrate how your investment could perform. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products. The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies, and are not an exact indicator. What you get will vary depending on how the market performs and how long you keep the product. The stress scenario shows what you might get back in extreme market circumstances, and it does not take into account the situation where we are not able to pay you.

The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs you pay to your advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.

Investors should note the above scenarios are based on the previous 5 years performance and there is no assurance the fund will perform as illustrated above in the scenarios illustrated

» What happens if Appian Asset Management Limited is unable to pay out?

You may face a financial loss should the manufacturer or depositary, default on their obligations. There is no compensation or guarantee scheme in place which may offset, all or any of, this loss.

» What are the costs?

The Reduction in Yield (RIY) shows what impact the total costs you pay will have on the investment return you might get. The total costs take into account one-off, ongoing and incidental costs.

The amounts shown here are the cumulative costs of the product itself, for three different holding periods. They include potential exit penalties. The figures assume you invest €10,000. The figures are estimates and may change in the future.

Table 1: Costs over time
